

EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

CAMP JOHNSON, June 11, 1861.

My last letter was written at home, and before it was in print—nothwithstanding our furlough was not out—we received orders to report ourselves immediately at this place; and having been taught that the first duty of a soldier was to obey orders, we "bundled up our trash," and on Saturday morning, the 1st inst., bade adieu to home and friends, and started for Camp Johnson, where we arrived that evening, "right side up." From the peremptory nature of our orders, we were led to hope and believe that our Regiment would have had an opportunity, before now, of displaying its gallantry upon the plains of Virginia. But in that we were mistaken, for nearly two weeks have elapsed, and we are yet at Camp Johnson; we still hope, however, to get away from here in a short time.

Since we returned to camp, Col. WILLIAMS has arrived and taken command of his Regiment. He is doing all in his power to have it equipped, and feels confident that so soon as we are ready, marching orders will be received. We expect to receive a portion of our equipments this evening—the balance very soon.

On Thursday last, Lieut.-Col. BEE, U. S. A., mustered this Regiment—about 850 strong—into the service of the Confederate States. According to the Army Bill, but ten companies can be received into a Regiment; consequently, this Regiment is composed now of ten, instead of twelve, companies. Knowing that it would prove interesting to the readers of the HERALD, I have taken the trouble to obtain correct lists of the Laurens companies, which were transferred to the Confederate States. They are as follows:
